General Comment

MSHA has said all along that they will provide guidance for the rule through stakeholder meetings throughout the country before the rule is implemented. We have not seen anything in regard to the stakeholder meetings being scheduled. Thus, it appears to me that postponing the rule is the correct thing to do. Also, I understand there is some legal opposition to the rule. If this is going to court in some fashion, it seems the best thing to do would be to table the rule at this point.
