General Comment

Influence of the RUSSIAN on US oil and gas sector," the letter dated June 29, U.S. Reps. Lamar Smith and Randy Weber ; to the U.S. Department of the Treasuryalleging a massive Russian disinformation campaign aimed at shaping public opinion. what Smith and Weber allege was a complex funding operation in which Russian energy interests funneled money through a Bermuda-based corporation to American anti-fracking environmental groups with the hope of hurting the American fossil fuel industry. Disgraceful environmentalist and Foreigners interfering with American policies, Regulations and rules ; Report called ; The Chain of Environmental Command: July 30, 2014.. The report uncovers the sophisticated practice of how wealthy donors, referred to in the report as the "Billionaire's Club," funnel money to far-left environmental activists through public charities, which in turn controls major policy decisions and lobbies on behalf of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works REPORT How a Club of Billionaires and Their Foundations Control the Environmental Movement and Obama's EPA July 30, 2014The Chain of Environmental Command: elite group of left wing millionaires and billionaires, private California foundation, which relies on funding from a foreign company with undisclosed donors. In turn, funnels tens of millions of dollars to other large but discreet foundations and prominent environmental activists who strive to control both policy and politics. Report examined in detail the mechanisms and methods of a far-left environmental machine that has been erected around a small group of powerful and active millionaires and billionaires who exert tremendous sway over a colossal effort. 2010 Supreme Court reversed a century of law to open the floodgates for special interests - including foreign corporations - ... basically millionaires and billionaires bankrolling whoever they want, some cases undisclosed. Billionaire's Club operated hidden under guise of "philanthropy." The scheme to keep their efforts hidden from political stage is deliberate, meticulous, and intended to mislead public. Through these arrangements, the Billionaire's Club gains access to close network of likeminded funders, environmental activists, and government bureaucrats who specialize in manufacturing phony "grassroots" movements and promoting bogus propaganda disguised as science and news to spread anti-fossil energy message to unknowing public. Far-left environmental machine comprised of hundreds of nonprofit organizations. Billionaire's Club achieves many successes through "capture" of key employees at EPA. The Obama EPA has been deliberately staffed at the highest levels with far-left environmental activists who have worked hand-in-glove with their former colleagues. The green-revolving door at EPA has become a valuable asset for far-left and wealthy donors. In addition important policy decisions, it appears activists now at EPA also funnel government money through grants to their former employers and colleagues. It reveals that activists are skilled at creating and pushing out propaganda disguised as science and news and financed questionable scientists to produce anti-fracking research. The "Billionaire's Club," an exclusive group of wealthy individuals, directs the far-left environmental movement. The members of this elite liberal club funnel their fortunes through private foundations to execute their personal political agenda, which is centered around restricting the use of fossil fuels in the United States. Report said Environmental Grant makers Association (EGA) is a place where wealthy donors meet and coordinate the distribution of grants to advance the environmental movement. EGA encourages the use of prescriptive grantmaking. It is a secretive organization, refusing to disclose their membership list to Congress. Environmental activist groups are well aligned with the greater far-left agenda. One of DA's acclaimed successes in the last year includes President Obama's executive actions on climate change. Many far-left environmental foundations and groups have pledged to divest in fossil fuels and invest in renewable projects as well as "philanthropy." The Obama Administration has installed an audacious green-revolving door among senior officials at EPA, which has become a valuable asset for the environmental movement and its wealthy donors. In New York and Colorado, a pseudo grassroots effort to attack hydraulic fracturing has germinated from massive amounts of funding, anti-fracking efforts have shifted to Colorado through two coalitions, overseas company contributing tens of millions to organizations dedicated to abolishing the use of affordable fossil fuels through a U.S. private foundation is highly problematic. <https://www.epw.senate.gov/public/index.cfm/white-papers> 92 page called Chain of Environmental Command
