Ensure cable bolts don’t accidentally activate controls

Make sure your movements don’t accidentally activate controls

Make sure unattended controls are either inactive or guarded

Other accidental control activation possibilities include:

- Self rescuers or tool belts hitting controls
- Roof bolts, drill steels, plates, resin boxes shifting from their stored location and striking controls

Cable bolt usage is increasing—and so is the chance of the long cable bolt accidentally activating the controls